Nature of Business

World Of Wireless International Telecom, Inc. (“WOWITEL”) [OTC:WWII] is a facility-based and full-service international communications company operating in the wireless communications industry. The Company is focused on: i.) Prepaid Unlimited Wireless Soft Phone Services for voice, text, data and streaming with or without dedicated connection to a "Hot Spot" or WiFi Network. ii.) WOWITEL is managed by seasoned telecom pioneers who have actively participated in the industry since its deregulation in 1984. The Company has been a constant evolution of communicative technology that has always been at the forefront of the industry. Now it is the international standard of 1s and 0s digital point-to-point to multi-point in information transfer. Due to the long attentive process and desire to achieve the very best we feel that customer retention and new customer awareness will only continue to grow.

The Company has a calendar year end for reporting purposes. The Company’s website address is <https://www.wowitel.com>. The Company’s principal office location is 65 Enterprise, Aliso Viejo, CA, 92656.

Development Stage Company

The Company is in the development stage as more fully defined in Statement No. 7 of the Financial Accounting Standards Board. The Company is in the business of researching, developing and commercializing new technologies. The Company will be devoting all of its resources to the research, development and commercialization of its technologies.

In a development stage company, management devotes most of its activities to preparing the business for operations. Planned principal activities have not yet begun. The ability of the Company to emerge from the development stage with respect to any planned principal business activity is dependent upon its successful efforts to raise additional equity financing and/or attain profitable operations. There is no guarantee that the company will be able to raise any equity financing or sell any of its products at a profit. There is, therefore, doubt regarding the Company’s ability to continue as a going concern.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of consolidated financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States requires us to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported and disclosed in the financial statements and the accompanying notes. Actual results could differ materially from these estimates. On an ongoing basis, we expect to evaluate our estimates, including those related to the accounts receivable and sales allowances, fair values of marketable and non-marketable securities, fair values of intangible assets and goodwill, useful lives of intangible assets, property and equipment, fair values of options to purchase our common stock, and income taxes, among others. We expect to base our estimates on historical experience and on various other assumptions that are believed to be reasonable, the results of which form the basis for making judgments about the carrying values of assets and liabilities.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ materially from those estimates. Significant accounting policies and estimates underlying the accompanying financial statements include:

It is reasonably possible that the estimates may change in the future.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all highly liquid debt instruments with original maturities not exceeding three months to be cash equivalents.

Property, Equipment and Depreciation

Property and equipment are recorded at cost. The Company purchases its equipment and converts capital expenditures into asset eliminating monthly payments and from time to time will continue to acquire assets through capital expenditure purchases. Depreciation is provided over the estimated useful lives of the related assets using the straight-line method for financial statement purposes. The Company uses other depreciation methods (generally accepted) for tax purposes where appropriate. Amortization of leasehold improvements is computed using the straight-line method over the shorter of the remaining lease term or the estimated useful lives of the improvements.

The estimated useful lives of property and equipment are as follows:

Office Equipment	3 – 10 years
R & D Equipment	3 – 10 years

Long-Lived Assets Including Goodwill and Other Acquired Intangible Assets

The Company reviews property and equipment and intangible assets, excluding goodwill, for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. Recoverability of these assets is measured by comparison of carrying amounts to the future undiscounted cash flows the assets are expected to generate. If property and equipment and intangible assets are considered to be impaired, the impairment to be recognized equals the amount by which the carrying value of the asset exceeds its fair market value. The Company has made no adjustments to long-lived assets in any of the years presented.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

In accordance with SFAS No. 142, Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets, the Company tests goodwill, if any, for impairment at least annually or more frequently if events or changes in circumstances indicate that this asset may be impaired.

SFAS No. 142 also requires that intangible assets with definite lives be amortized over their estimated useful lives and reviewed for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate an asset's carrying value may not be recoverable in accordance with SFAS No. 144, Accounting for the Impairment of Long-Lived Assets and for Long-Lived Assets to Be Disposed Of.

Intangibles

Intangibles consist of software, including purchased software, and development of new software products and enhancements to existing software products. Until technological feasibility is established, costs associated with software development, including costs associated with the acquisition of intellectual property relating to software development is expensed as incurred. After technological feasibility is established and until the products are available for sale, software development costs are capitalized and amortized over the greater of the amount computed using (a) the ratio that current gross revenue for the product bears to the total of current and anticipated future gross revenue for that product or (b) the straight-line method over the estimated economic life of the product including the period being reported on. The amortization period has been determined as the life of the product, which is three years.

Revenue Recognition

As the Company is continuing development of its technologies, no significant revenues have been earned to date. The Company recognizes revenues at the time of delivery of the product to the customers.

Research and Development costs charged to Expense as Incurred

Expenditures for research activities relating to product development and improvement are charged to expense as incurred. Such expenditures amounted to $4,253,120 since inception.

Stock Issued in Exchange For Services

The valuation of the common stock issued in exchange for services is valued at an estimated fair market value as determined by the officers and directors for the Company based upon other sales and issuances of the Company's common stock within the same general time period.

Accounting Standards Codification

In September 2009, the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") issued ASC 105, formerly FASB Statement No. 168, the FASB Accounting Standards Codification ("Codification") and the Hierarchy of Generally Accepted Accounting Principles ("GAAP"), a replacement of FASB Statement No. 162 ("SFAS 168"). SFAS 168 establishes the Codification as the single source of authoritative GAAP in the United States, other than rules and interpretive releases issued by the SEC. The Codification is a reorganization of current GAAP into a topical format that eliminates the current GAAP hierarchy and establishes instead two levels of guidance — authoritative and non-authoritative. All non-grandfathered, non-SEC accounting literature that is not included in the Codification will become non-authoritative. The FASB's primary goal in developing the Codification is to simplify user access to all authoritative GAAP by providing all the authoritative literature related to a particular accounting topic in one place. The Codification was effective for interim and annual periods ending after September 15, 2009. As the Codification was not intended to change or alter existing GAAP, it did not have a material impact on the Company's consolidated financial statements.

Effect of Recent Accounting Pronouncements

The Company reviews new accounting standards as issued. No new standards had any material effect on these consolidated financial statements. The accounting pronouncements issued subsequent to the date of these financial statements that were considered significant by management were evaluated for the potential effect on these consolidated financial statements. Management does not believe any of the subsequent pronouncements will have a material effect on these consolidated financial statements as presented and does not anticipate the need for any future restatement of these consolidated financial statements because of the retro-active application of any accounting pronouncements issued subsequent to June 30, 2022 through the date these financial statements were issued.

Litigation

The Company may be subject to various claims and pending or threatened lawsuits in the normal course of business. Management believes that the outcome of any such lawsuits would not have a materially adverse effect on the Company's financial position, results of operations or cash flows.

Legal Costs

Legal costs are expensed as incurred.

Advertising and Promotional Expenses

Advertising and promotional costs are expensed as incurred.

General Comment on Contingencies

Certain conditions may exist as of the date the Financial Statements are issued, which may result in a loss to the Company but which will only be resolved when one or more future events occur or fail to occur. The Company's management and its legal counsel assess such contingent liabilities, and such assessment inherently involves an exercise of judgment. In assessing loss contingencies related to legal proceedings that are pending against the Company or unasserted claims that may result in such proceedings, the Company's legal counsel evaluates the perceived merits of any legal proceedings or un-asserted claims as well as the perceived merits of the amount of relief sought or expected to be sought therein.

If the assessment of a contingency indicates that it is probable that a material loss has been incurred and the amount of the liability can be estimated, then the estimated liability would be accrued in the Company's Financial Statements. If the assessment indicates that a potentially material loss contingency is not probable, but is reasonably possible, or is probable but cannot be estimated, then the nature of the contingent liability, together with an estimate of the range of possible loss if determinable and material, would be disclosed.

NOTE 4 – INCOME TAXES

Deferred income taxes reflect the tax effect of the temporary differences between the carrying amount of assets and liabilities for financial reporting purposes and the amounts used for tax purposes. The components of the net deferred income tax assets are as follows:

	June 30, 2022
CURRENT	$ -0-
DEFERRED	$ 1,787,712
Allowance for realization	$ (1,787,712)
Total Deferred Income Tax Benefit	$ -0-

Realization of the Deferred Income Tax Asset is Dependent on Generating Future Taxable Income

Background

Deferred tax assets arise when a company's financial statements recognize charges or expenses that, for income tax purposes, will not be allowed as deductions until future periods. For example, when a corporation incurs an expense in its financial statements, such as certain restructuring type charges, that it is not allowed to deduct on its federal tax return until paid in the future, the future tax benefit of that expense is generally recorded in the income statement as a reduction of income tax expense and in the balance sheet as a tax asset. The same general treatment applies to the carry forward of unused net operating losses and unused tax credits. Deferred tax assets are often netted with deferred tax liabilities when presented in the balance sheet and are referred to as net deferred tax assets.

Under FAS 109, Accounting for Income Taxes, a net deferred tax asset may only be carried on the balance sheet at its full value if it is more likely than not that the deductions, losses, or credits giving rise to such deferred tax asset will be used in the future. If the more likely than not test is not met, then a valuation allowance is required to be recorded against the net deferred tax asset. A valuation allowance creates a charge to income tax expense in the income statement and a reduction of an asset on the balance sheet, in the period it is recorded. Common practice would support a determination that a corporation with two or more consecutive years of significant losses is presumed to fail the more likely than not test. Because of the Company's losses in recent years the Company has examined the value of its deferred tax assets and felt it was appropriate to record a valuation allowance against a major portion of them. The valuation allowance essentially reduced the Company's deferred tax asset to zero. The effect was to reverse the benefit of those deferred tax assets that were recorded in prior years' income statements and balance sheets. Consequently, these tax benefits will be available in the future to reduce our income tax expense when we have positive income to use the tax benefits, or we have sufficient deferred tax liabilities to absorb the tax assets.

Realization of the deferred income tax asset is dependent on generating sufficient taxable income in future years. Although realization is not assured, management believes it is more likely than not that all of the deferred income tax assets will be realized. The amount of the deferred income tax assets considered realizable, however, could be reduced in the near term if estimates of future taxable income are reduced.

As of June 30, 2022, the Company's net operating loss carry forwards for income tax purposes were approximately $9,725,954.00.
