FORWARD LOOKING STATEMENTS

This presentation contains "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of the federal securities laws, including the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 (Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933 and Section 21E of the Securities and Exchange Act of 1934). Such statements are inherently subject to risks and uncertainties that may cause actual events and results to differ materially from such statements. Further, forward looking statements are intended to speak only as of the date on which they are made, and we disclaim any duty to update such statements to reflect any changes in management's expectations or any change in the assumptions or circumstances on which such statements are based, whether due to new information, future events, or otherwise. Forward-looking statements are statements that include projections, expectations, or beliefs about future events or results or otherwise are not statements of historical fact. Such statements are often but not always characterized by qualifying words such as "expect," "believe," "anticipate," "estimate," "intend," "plan," "project," and their derivatives, and include but are not limited to statements about expectations for our future operations, production levels, new product launches, sales, profit margins, profitability, operating income, capital expenditures, working capital levels, income taxes, SG&A or other expenses, pre-tax income, earnings, cash flow, and other performance or liquidity measures, as well as any statements regarding potential acquisitions, future economic or industry trends, public health epidemics, or future developments. There can be no assurance that we will realize these expectations or meet our guidance, or that these beliefs will prove correct.

Factors that could influence the matters discussed in such statements include the level of housing starts and sales of existing homes, consumer confidence, trends in disposable income, and general economic conditions. Decreases in these economic indicators could have a negative effect on our business and prospects. Likewise, increases in interest rates, particularly home mortgage rates, and increases in consumer debt or the general rate of inflation, could affect us adversely. The future performance of our business depends in part on our success in conducting and finalizing acquisition negotiations and integrating acquired businesses into our existing operations. Changes in consumer tastes or preferences toward products not produced by us could erode demand for our products. Changes in tariffs or trade policy, or changes in the value of the U.S. dollar versus other currencies, could affect our financial results because a significant portion of our operations are located outside the United States. Strengthening of the U.S. dollar against other currencies could make our products less competitive on the basis of price in markets outside the United States, and strengthening of currencies in Canada and China can have a negative impact on our sales of products produced in those places. Also, economic or political instability in international areas could affect our operations or sources of goods in those areas, as well as demand for our products in international markets. The impact of public health epidemics on employees, customers, suppliers, and the global economy, such as the global coronavirus pandemic currently affecting countries around the world, could also adversely affect our operations and financial performance. In addition, the impact of potential goodwill or intangible asset impairments could affect our financial results. Increases in freight costs, labor costs, and raw material prices, including increases in market prices for petrochemical products, can also significantly affect the prices we pay for shipping, labor, and raw materials, respectively, and in turn, increase our operating costs and decrease our profitability. Finally, disruption in our customers' supply chains for non-fabric components may cause declines in new orders and/or delayed shipping of existing orders while our customers wait for other components, which could adversely affect our financial results. Further information about these factors, as well as other factors that could affect our future operations or financial results and the matters discussed in forward-looking statements, is included in Item 1A "Risk Factors" in our recent Form 10-K and Form 10-Q reports filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission. A forward-looking statement is neither a prediction nor a guarantee of future events or circumstances, and those future events or circumstances may not occur.

INNOVATION LEADER, FOCUSED ON HIGH PERFORMANCE

KEY INVESTMENT POINTS

- ◆ Profitable mattress fabrics and upholstery fabrics businesses, each with a leading market share
- ◆ Growth in U.S. housing and greater consumer focus on home environment, leading to increase in discretionary spending on home furnishing products
- Scalable multi-country platform
- Experienced and dedicated innovation and design capabilities in both businesses
- ♦ Stable, long-term supply chains in both businesses
- ♦ Strong balance sheet position and disciplined use of capital
- ♦ Significant free cash flow generation over multiple years
- ◆ Since June 2011, the company has returned approximately $72 million to shareholders in regular quarterly and special dividends and share repurchases

RECENT STRATEGIC INITIATIVES

- Currently expanding capacity for cut and sewn upholstery kits with a new production facility in Haiti (expected to be complete during third quarter of FY 2022) to support committed demand from existing customer
- Expanded cut and sewn mattress covers in both Haiti and Asia, including increased capacity in Haiti through recent acquisition of remaining 50% ownership interest in existing joint venture
- Implemented multi-year plant consolidation and cost-management projects in mattress fabric operations in United States and Canada
- Invested in additional equipment to increase capacity for mattress fabric operations in North America
- ◆ Price increases implemented in both businesses, effective first quarter of FY 2022, to help offset higher freight and raw material costs and ongoing China foreign exchange rate fluctuations; additional surcharge implemented in both businesses during second quarter of FY 2022, and additional pricing actions being taken during third quarter of FY 2022, to help cover continued inflationary pressures
- Leveraged global platform during pandemic to meet surge in demand and address global supply chain challenges
- Currently evaluating expansion of Vietnam platform to add fabric production capabilities to existing cut and sew sourcing
- Focusing on progress on ESG initiatives for FY 2022

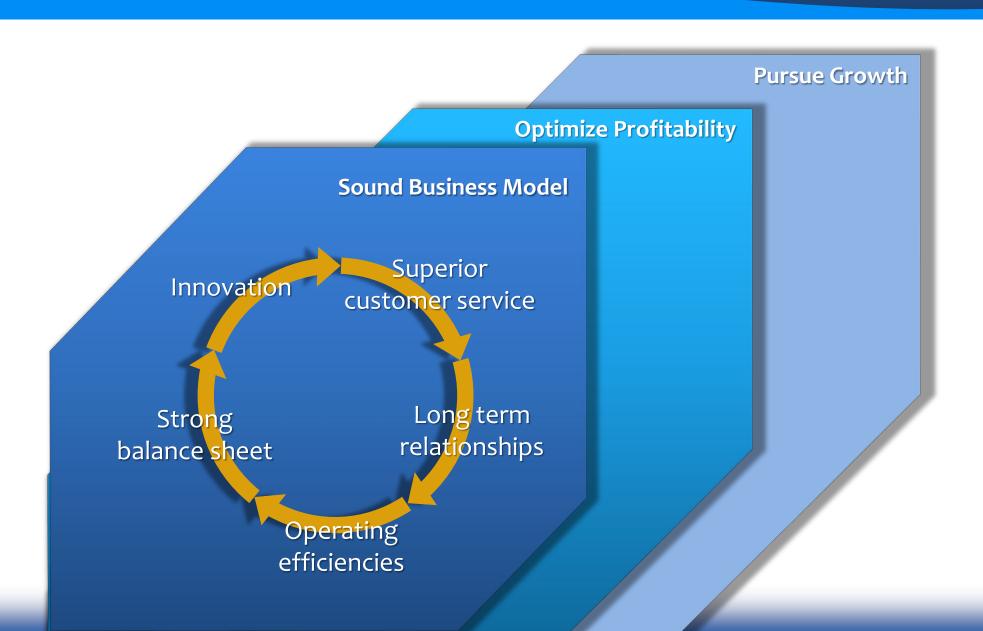

RECENT STRATEGIC INITIATIVES (cont'd)

New innovation campus opened in downtown High Point, North Carolina, during the second quarter of FY22. This design-driven space brings together the company's most innovative and talented minds to foster collaboration across divisions and provide an everyday space to gather, meet with customers, develop new products, and showcase the company's technologies an innovations from fabric to sewn cover.

PRINCIPLES UNDERLYING OUR SUCCESS

CAPITAL ALLOCATION DISCIPLINE

- ♦ Culture emphasizing stewardship in capital utilization
- Focus on solid free cash flow generation
- ♦ Incentive compensation based on Economic Value Added (EVA) principles since 2011*

*For fiscal 2021 and fiscal 2022, to support management's focus on liquidity and profitability in volatile environment, incentive compensation has been based on adjusted measures of free cash flow and operating income.

Organic Growth

- Fund working capital
- Fund Cap Ex for mattress fabrics
- Pay down debt

Balanced Capital Deployment

Acquisitions

- Will continue to evaluate strategic opportunities
- Must meet strict criteria
 - Not capital intensive
 - Low risk
 - Don't overpay
 - Cultural fit

Shareholder Value

- Annual dividend of $0.46
- Consider share repurchases or special dividends when adequate cash available, no need for additional Cap Ex, no potential acquisition opportunities, & no major economic concerns

Build Excess Cash

• If business or economic outlook is such that we decide against repurchasing shares and/or paying a special dividend, then we will build cash

MATTRESS INDUSTRY - RECENT DEMAND TRENDS

- ◆ COVID-19 pandemic has generated increased consumer demand for overall comfort and wellness at home, with more discretionary spending on home furniture products, including mattresses
- ◆ Expanding growth opportunities for bed-in-a-box mattress covers, both in e-commerce and traditional retail
- ◆ Domestic mattress industry appears to be benefitting from preliminary anti-dumping duties imposed by U.S. Department of Commerce on mattress imports from seven countries
- ◆ Some continuing disruption in domestic mattress industry relating to low- priced mattress imports
- Industry promoting benefits of sleep for overall health
 - Mattress innovation is more than comfort. Today's consumers are focused on health, wellness, energy from sleep, and sustainability efforts
- ♦ Mattress industry has become a more decorative and innovative business

ABOUT NON-GAAP FINANCIAL INFORMATION

This presentation contains adjusted income statement information, which discloses adjusted net income (loss) and adjusted earnings per share, non-GAAP performance measures that eliminate a non-cash income tax charge in connection with the recordation of a full valuation allowance against the company's U.S. net deferred income tax assets, as well as a non-cash income tax benefit resulting from the re-establishment of certain U.S. Federal net operating loss carryforwards in connection with the recently enacted final regulations regarding the Global Intangible Low Taxed Income ("GILTI") tax provisions of the Tax Cuts and Jobs Act of 2017. The company has included this adjusted information in order to show operational performance excluding the effects of this non-cash income tax charge and non-cash income tax benefit, which are not expected to occur on a regular basis. Details of these calculations and a reconciliation to information from our GAAP financial statements are set forth in the back of this presentation. Management believes this presentation aids in the comparison of financial results among comparable financial periods. We note, however, that this adjusted income statement information should not be viewed in isolation or as a substitute for net income or earnings per share calculated in accordance with GAAP. In addition, the calculation of the company's income taxes involves numerous estimates and assumptions, which we have made in good faith.

This presentation contains disclosures about free cash flow, a non-GAAP liquidity measure that we define as net cash provided by (used in) operating activities, less cash capital expenditures, plus any proceeds from sale of property, plant, and equipment, less investment in unconsolidated joint venture, plus proceeds from life insurance policies, less premium payments on life insurance policies, less payments on vendor-financed capital expenditures, plus proceeds from the sale of long-term investments associated with our rabbi trust, less the purchase of long-term investments associated with our rabbi trust, and plus or minus the effects of foreign currency exchange rate changes on cash and cash equivalents, in each case to the extent any such amount is incurred during the period presented. Details of these calculations and a reconciliation to information from our GAAP financial statements are set forth in the back of this presentation. Management believes the disclosure of free cash flow provides useful information to investors because it measures our available cash flow for potential debt repayment, stock repurchases, dividends, additions to cash and investments, or other corporate purposes. We note, however, that not all of the company's free cash flow is available for discretionary spending, as we may have mandatory debt payments and other cash requirements that must be deducted from our cash available for future use. In operating our business, management uses free cash flow to make decisions about what commitments of cash to make for operations, such as capital expenditures (and financing arrangements for these expenditures), purchases of inventory or supplies, SG&A expenditure levels, compensation, and other commitments of cash, while still allowing for adequate cash to meet known future commitments for cash, such as debt repayment, and also for making decisions about dividend payments and share repurchases.

ABOUT NON-GAAP FINANCIAL INFORMATION (2)

This presentation contains disclosures about our Adjusted EBITDA, which is a non-GAAP performance measure that reflects net income (loss) excluding loss before income taxes from discontinued operations, income tax expense (benefit) from continuing operations, and net interest income, as well as depreciation and amortization expense from continuing operations, and stock-based compensation expense. This measure also excludes asset impairment charges from continuing operations, gain on bargain purchase, restructuring and related charges and credits, as well as other non-recurring charges and credits associated with our business. Details of these calculations and a reconciliation to information from our GAAP financial statements are set forth in this presentation. We believe presentation of Adjusted EBITDA is useful to investors because earnings before interest income and expense, income taxes, depreciation and amortization, and similar performance measures that exclude certain charges from earnings, are often used by investors and financial analysts in evaluating and comparing companies in our industry. We note, however, that such measures are not defined uniformly by various companies, with differing expenses being excluded from net income to calculate these performance measures. For this reason, Adjusted EBITDA should not be viewed in isolation by investors and should not be used as a substitute for net income calculated in accordance with GAAP, nor should it be used for direct comparisons with similarly titled performance measures reported by other companies. Use of Adjusted EBITDA as an analytical tool has limitations in that this measure does not reflect all expenses that are necessary to fund and operate our business, including funds required to pay taxes, service our debt, and fund capital expenditures, among others. Management uses Adjusted EBITDA to help it analyze the company's earnings and operating performance, by excluding the effects of expenses that do not require immediate uses of cash.

The presentation contains disclosures about return on capital for both the entire company and for individual business segments. We define return on capital as adjusted operating income (loss) (measured on a trailing twelve-month basis and excluding certain non-recurring charges and credits) divided by average capital employed (excluding goodwill and intangibles and obligations related to acquisitions at the divisional level only). Operating income (loss) excludes certain non-recurring charges, and average capital employed is calculated over rolling five fiscal periods, depending on which quarter is being presented. Details of these calculations and a reconciliation to information from our GAAP financial statements are set forth at the back of this presentation. We believe return on capital is an accepted measure of earnings efficiency in relation to capital employed, but it is a non-GAAP performance measure that is not defined or calculated in the same manner by all companies. This measure should not be considered in isolation or as an alternative to net income or other performance measures, but we believe it provides useful information to investors by comparing the operating income we produce to the asset base used to generate that income. Also, operating income on a trailing twelve-month basis does not necessarily indicate results that would be expected for the full fiscal year or for the following twelve months. We note that, particularly for return on capital measured at the segment tevel, not all assets and expenses are allocated to our operating segments, and there are assets and expenses at the corporate (unallocated) level that may provide support to a segment's operations and yet are not included in the assets and expenses used to calculate that segment's return on capital. Thus, the average return on capital for the company's segments will generally be different from the company's overall return on capital. Management uses return on capital to evaluate the company's earnings efficiency and the relativ

Notes

- (1) See last page of this presentation for calculation.
- (2) Return on average capital employed represents the last twelve months operating income as of October 31, 2021, divided by average capital employed. Average capital employed does not include cash and cash equivalents, short-term investments Available-For-Sale, and short-term and long-term investments Held-To-Maturity, long-term investments Rabbi Trust, income taxes receivable and payable, noncurrent deferred income tax assets and liabilities, and deferred compensation.
- (3) Average capital employed was computed using the five quarterly periods ending October 31, 2021, August 1, 2021, May 2, 2021, January 31, 2021, and November 1, 2020,
- (4) Intangible assets are included in unallocated corporate for all periods presented and therefore, have no effect on capital employed and return on capital employed for our mattress fabrics and upholstery fabrics segments.
