COLUMBUS, OHIO – The below statement can be attributed to Ohio Chamber President & CEO Steve Stivers regarding Intel’s Monday announcements.

“Today’s announcements by Intel provide reassurance to Ohioans that their investments continue as planned and will result in thousands of high-paying jobs. Through partnerships with the Department of Defense and AWS, the Silicon Heartland is quickly becoming a new strategic asset critical to the security of our nation and its infrastructure. We look forward to working with Intel, its partners across federal, state and local government, and its partners in private industry to maximize the impact of these investments for the citizens of Ohio and the United States.”
