Quarterly Report
 September 30, 2024

Dear Shareholders,

The financial results of Woodlands Financial Services Company (the Company) are presented herein for the third quarter 2024. The seminal event of the quarter had to be the Federal Open Market Committee's (Fed's) decision to lower the Federal Funds Target Rate by 50 basis points on September 18. This was the first interest rate reduction by the Fed since the emergency cuts that took place in 2020 as a response to the economic issues created by the onset of the COVID pandemic. This decision to cut rates indicates that the monetary policy tightening measures employed by the Fed in 2022 and 2023 had finally had the intended effect on inflation, albeit later than anticipated. The market expectations for an economic "soft landing" have increased substantially since even a few months ago as labor markets appear to still be strong despite the measures taken to combat inflation. The easing of rates on the short end of the yield curve marks the beginning of a normalization of the interest rate curve as the 10-year treasury rate exceeded the 2-year treasury rate for the first time since July 2022. This normalization provides relief to financial institutions across the industry who have seen deposit and borrowing costs skyrocket with the Fed's monetary tightening measures with most bank's balance sheets seeing a lagging of the repricing of loans and investments on the asset side of the balance sheet compared to the immediate or near-immediate repricing of certain sources of funding. This caused an industry-wide margin compression from which this Fed action signals the beginning of relief and the movement toward a normalization of those margins. Both Fed and market expectations indicate more rate cuts by the Fed by the end of 2024 as well as throughout 2025. As mentioned in the previous quarter's letter, a major focus of nearly all departments of Woodlands Bank (Bank) during the quarter was the work necessary to prepare for a conversion of the Bank's core operating system and many of the integrated peripheral platforms utilized to serve the needs of customers and employees alike. This conversion took place during the first weekend of the fourth quarter and has been successful. Post-conversion issues largely centered around changes in security protocols of the new internet banking platform and not due to errors in the conversion of data or the proper integration of systems. Additionally, the legal process continues with respect to the credit charge-off taken in the fourth quarter 2023, and while moving slower than desired, full recovery continues to be the goal of those efforts.

During the third quarter 2024, the Company's net loans declined by $2.2 million, 0.5%, while total deposits increased $15.3 million, 2.9%. The reduction in loans reflects a concerted effort to be highly selective in the utilization of capital toward growth until such time capital ratios can return to levels prior to the 2023 credit charge-off. The Company's securities portfolio continues to run off with maturities and pay-downs. These proceeds, along with the growth in core deposits, have contributed significantly to the reduction in the overall cost of funding. The Company's overall liquidity position remains strong.

Net income for the second quarter was $924 thousand, a 41.7% increase from the previous quarter; while year-to-date net income stands at $2,065. While net income remains below that of the first nine months of 2023, the increase in the quarterly net income reflects the widening of margins due to the factors noted above. Non-interest income remains a solid, and non-interest expenses were stable outside of the elevated legal fees being incurred seeking recovery of the charged-off loan.

A return to normal is underway on many fronts. Your support is very much appreciated as we have worked diligently to navigate the challenges of the current environment while also investing in the technologies that will provide us with the foundation for future growth and profitability. These investments will ensure our ability to meet the needs of our current and future customers as the banking landscape continues to rapidly evolve. May you all enjoy the final months of 2024.

Sincerely,

Jon P. Conklin
Chairman, President and CEO
