Mission in Kosovo

■ FOREWORD

Over the last 25 years Kosovo has made remarkable strides through establishing democratic institutions, creating a pluralistic media landscape, developing accountable public safety bodies and putting a legal framework in place to protect the rights of non-majority communities.

This booklet to mark the 25th anniversary of the OSCE Mission in Kosovo chronicles powerfully, in images and words, the contributions which the Mission has made at every step of this extraordinary journey, staying true to the mandate it received from the OSCE's Permanent Council.

Building on these achievements, the OSCE Mission will continue to support the consolidation of Kosovo's democratic institutions, the implementation of its framework for protecting human and community rights, and the engagement of public safety bodies with all communities.

As we celebrate 25 years of the OSCE Mission, we would like to thank all our partners and friends in Kosovo, including current and former staff of the Mission itself, who have made this journey possible.

HIGHLIGHTS OF PERMANENT COUNCIL DECISION NO. 305

Following the adoption of United Nations Security Council Resolution 1244, on 1 July 1999 the OSCE Permanent Council adopted Decision 305 setting up the OSCE Mission in Kosovo and tasking it with the lead role in matters relating to institution and democracy building and human rights.

In particular, the Decision set the following tasks for the newly established OSCE Mission in Kosovo:

1. Human resources capacity-building, including the training of a new Kosovo police service within a Kosovo Police School which it will establish and operate, the training of judicial personnel and the training of civil administrators at various levels, in co-operation, inter alia, with the Council of Europe;
 2. Democratization and governance, including the development of a civil society, non-governmental organizations, political parties and local media;
 3. Organization and supervision of elections;
 4. Monitoring, protection and promotion of human rights, including, inter alia, the establishment of an Ombudsman institution, in co-operation, inter alia, with the UNHCR;

““ The OSCE Mission in Kosovo will in its work be guided by the importance of bringing about mutual respect and reconciliation among all ethnic groups in Kosovo and of establishing a viable multi-ethnic society where the rights of each citizen are fully and equally respected. ””

WHO WE ARE

The Mission in Kosovo is an OSCE field operation headquartered in Prishtinë/Priština and maintains five regional offices located in Gjilan/Gnjilane, Mitrovicë/Mitrovica, Pejë/Peć, and Prizren, as well as in Prishtinë/Priština itself.

WHAT WE DO

The OSCE Mission in Kosovo, currently the largest OSCE field operation, runs a wide array of activities in the fields of human rights, democratization and public safety. Over the years, the role of the OSCE Mission has been instrumental in establishing and supporting the functioning of democratic institutions and promoting civic participation in decision-making. The Mission focuses a major part of its work on the promotion and protection of human rights and the wellbeing of non-majority communities.

Maintaining an effective and democratic public safety sector is another continuing priority.

The work of the Mission continues to evolve within the framework of its mandate, OSCE Permanent Council decision 305 (1999), and in cooperation with partners, beneficiaries and stakeholders.
